OVERVIEW

The 27th Milken Institute Global Conference brought together the world’s most influential minds to tackle urgent topics and explore promising opportunities. This gathering was a nexus where those with capital and influence met innovators reshaping health, finance, business, technology, philanthropy, industry, and society.

Under the theme Shaping a Shared Future, the conference delved into pressing issues such as the resurgence of geopolitical conflicts, the ongoing climate crisis, and the complex implications of artificial intelligence.

This flagship event was more than a meeting of minds: It was a community coming together to address today’s challenges and seize the opportunity to collectively shape the future. The Global Conference continues to deliver unique experiences, prompting participants to reflect on recent disruptions and innovations and to translate these insights into groundbreaking solutions for tomorrow.

Through fostering open dialogue, the Milken Institute remains committed to building meaningful, healthy, and prosperous lives for all.

THE NEXT GLOBAL CONFERENCE WILL TAKE PLACE

MAY 4–7, 2025
SPEAKERS

The 2024 Global Conference was a vibrant tapestry of voices featuring an exceptional lineup of 1,030 speakers. This diverse group included 34 percent identifying as Black, Indigenous, and people of color, 39 percent women, and 50 percent making their debut at a Milken Institute event.

Through continuing to expand our international scope, the conference amassed speakers from many different backgrounds and countries, with 208 speakers based outside of the United States representing 44 countries. High-level executives spoke on a range of topics, with 417 speakers coming from the C-suite, 300 of which were CEOs. We continue to forge strong partnerships with our sponsors, with 200 as speakers in a variety of public and private sessions.
This year’s conference was a dynamic blend of ideas and insights, featuring 271 public and private sessions over four days. The Institute curated a rich program that explored the global, economic, and societal impacts and opportunities of our time. Through the lens of shaping our shared future, participants engaged in a wide array of topics, including innovation and technology; business and industry; capital access and economic opportunity; diversity, equity, and inclusion; financial markets; health and medical research; human capital, jobs, and education; philanthropy and social impact; policy, politics, and regulation; regions and developing markets; security and risk; society and culture; and sustainability and environment.

Attendees had the opportunity to dive into discussions on significant and influential subjects, ranging from corporate leadership and gun violence prevention to global financial systems, artificial intelligence, climate resilience, global health, geoeconomics, and beyond.

Key government voices included President of Argentina Javier Milei; Commodity Futures Trading Commission Chairman Rostin Behnam; 42nd President of the United States Bill J. Clinton; CDC Director Mandy Cohen; Special Presidential Advisor for the Americas Christopher Dodd; 33rd President of Colombia H.E. Ivan Duque Márquez; International Monetary Fund Managing Director Kristalina Georgieva; Inter-American Development Bank President Ilan Goldfajn; Hawaii Governor Josh Green; Small Business Administration Administrator Isabel Casillas Guzman; New York Governor Kathy Hochul; Minneapolis Federal Reserve President and CEO Neel Kashkari; 54th Prime Minister of the United Kingdom Theresa May; Executive Director of the World Food Programme Cindy McCain; 55th Speaker of the US House of Representatives Kevin McCarthy; Senior Advisor to the President John Podesta; Governor of Yucatán Mauricio Vila Dosal; US Department of Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack; and New York Federal Reserve President and CEO John Williams.

Members of the US Congress participated in high-level dialogues throughout the conference, including Senator Cory Booker of New Jersey; Senator Bill Cassidy of Louisiana; Representative Darrell Issa of California; Democratic Leader of the House Hakeem Jeffries of New York; Senator James Lankford of Oklahoma; Representative Ted Lieu of California; Senator Joe Manchin of West Virginia; and Senator Kyrsten Sinema of Arizona.
MI Health launched three exciting initiatives: “Project Prevent,” which focuses on prevention and innovation; “ENRICH-CT” to improve community-based research; and “A Blueprint for Employer-Sponsored Food As Health Benefits” for food systems.

The Milken Institute’s health programming took the stage with a robust lineup of content and discussions, featuring 17 public and six private sessions. More than 200 health stakeholders engaged in conversations about critical topics like health care, prevention, and health innovation. During the Global Conference, the MI Health team unveiled six reports, including Employer Investments in Digital Whole-Person Health for Substance Use Disorders, Financing Early Warning Systems: Reports for Brazil, Indonesia, and Kenya, Reimagining the Future of Employer-Sponsored Health Care to Drive Value: Survey Insights, and Toward a National Action Plan for Achieving Diversity in Clinical Trials.
The Milken Institute's finance programming captivated attendees with 45 public and 30 private sessions. Participants dove deep into key trends in finance and global financial markets, engaging in thought-provoking dialogues on inclusive capitalism, climate finance, lifetime financial security, and more. With 394 speakers, the conference buzzed with insights on financial trends, FinTech, economic mobility, public finance, and other pressing topics.

Finance initiatives and programs featured at Global Conference included 10,000 Communities, Inclusive Capitalism, Climate-Resilient Infrastructure, FinTech, Small Business Policy and Innovation, and Lifetime Financial Security.

One of our programs highlighted at Global Conference was the HBCU Strategic Initiative and Fellows Program, where our fellows attended the conference and gained exposure to our financial programming and many other topics.
The Milken Institute’s philanthropy programming showcased a lineup of 19 public and private sessions featuring 59 speakers who engaged in insightful discussions on breakthroughs in scientific discovery, corporate philanthropy, and collaborations for improved mental health. The increasing role of AI in biomedical research and clinical care was a prominent theme.

One highlight was the Milken-Motsepe Innovation Prize Program, designed to reward companies that use cutting-edge technologies to expand access to capital. The conference saw the announcement of the winners of the Milken-Motsepe Prize in Green Energy and the launch of the Milken-Motsepe Prize in FinTech. Other notable initiatives highlighted included the Science Philanthropy Accelerator for Research and Collaboration, BD², and Pathways to Strategic Philanthropy, all of which underscored the Institute’s dedication to driving innovation and fostering impactful philanthropic endeavors.

The third Philanthropic Investors’ Forum at Global Conference brought together 80+ philanthropy leaders for a day of learning and connection to foster greater collaboration across the sector. Speakers included Jeffrey Katzenberg, Her Excellency Toyin Saraki, Justin Rockefeller, and David M. Rubenstein.
The Milken Institute's international programming offered an array of 30 public and private sessions, exploring trends and opportunities across Asia, Africa, Europe, and Latin America. This diverse agenda aimed to catalyze change across continents, focusing on shaping a shared global future.

Initiatives like the Global Financial Scholars Programs and the Young Leaders Circle brought members together to gain insights and share their perspectives at the Global Conference. Additionally, reports featured during the conference include the Global Opportunity Index 2024: Attracting Foreign Investment and Financing Early Warning Systems in Brazil, Kenya, and Indonesia.

At the conference, we launched our Milken Institute Africa Leaders Business Council. The Council convenes private- and public-sector leaders from across the globe to share their expertise on Africa and support and inform the Institute's engagement and programming on the continent. The aim is to foster resilient, inclusive economies led by African entrepreneurs and investors that can help realize Africa's brightest future.
AUDIENCE

The Global Conference brought together more than 5,000 in-person attendees over three days with topical content and vital discussions. Participants from 67 countries, including global leaders, experts, C-suite executives from Fortune 500 and global companies, and innovators across finance, technology, health, philanthropy, and media gathered to exchange ideas and insights.

The Milken Institute prioritizes accessibility to the event by streaming more than 165 public sessions via our website (milkeninstitute.org) and Vimeo, attracting 308,000 views from 200 countries and counting. The top five countries for viewing included the United States, United Kingdom, Argentina, Canada, and India.
